Here is another photo out of Grayling's past. It was furnished to the Avalanche by Mrs. O. N. Michelson of Bismarck and summer resident, Mrs. Lorraine Margrethe. The photo was taken from across the Crawford County Court House facing north. The large building in the center of the photo is the old Grayling school. This structure burned in 1914 or 1915 so this photo was taken prior to that time and must be close to fifty years old.

The People Are Learning . . .

The political writers, whose names are legion these days, have devoted innumerable words to President Kennedy's difficulties with Congress. In the view of one, the legislative record to date, of White House must baffle: verges on the catastrophic and may have a profound influence on elections to come. Time will tell as to that. Meanwhile, there is one element in this record that deserves more emphasis than has been given.

Mr. Kennedy has been almost totally successful in obtaining approval of measures that are clearly necessary to the national welfare and security. The $50 billion defense budget is proof of that. The amendments and changes made were minor.

He is virtually certain to be equally successful in obtaining approval of moves and policies that, whether we like them or not, stem from the pressure of irresistible world forces. The trade expansion plan, which is to give the President great and unprecedented powers in adjusting tariffs and in making and gaining other trade concessions, is the prime example here. Sentiment, based on the hard rock of logic and necessity, is powerfully in favor of it.

The President's legislative failures on the other hand, have been in areas of welfare state expansion. Three examples are paramount — the medicare bill; the farm bill, and the bill to establish an urban affairs body at the cabinet level. All would have advanced, one way or another, reflect the popular will.

Another Mouse Trap . . .

The Chicago Sun-Times observes: "Emerson's mouse-trap shows up in many different guises. The quote about the world beating its way to the door of the man who makes a better mousetrap is an illustration that competition and the free enterprise system is good not only for business but for the consumers — the buyers of mousetraps."

Cause of this editorial comment was the installation, by one of the country's leading oil companies, of a filtering device on all its gasoline pumps. Cleaner gasoline is thus delivered to the cars of the company's customers.

The company, of course, hopes that the innovation will increase its service station business. And so it's an example of how the profit motive makes for better bill, and the bill to establish an urban affairs body at the cabinet level. All would have advanced, one way or another, reflect the popular will.

or another, the welfare state, "Big Brother" philosophy. It would be absurd to argue that this Congress is anti-Kennedy. His party holds heavy majorities in both branches. But the country has had heavy doses of welfare-statism, and is learning what the costs are in lost liberty and independence, no less than in billions of money. There are signs that the people have had more than enough of it — and that the acts of Congress simply reflect the popular will.

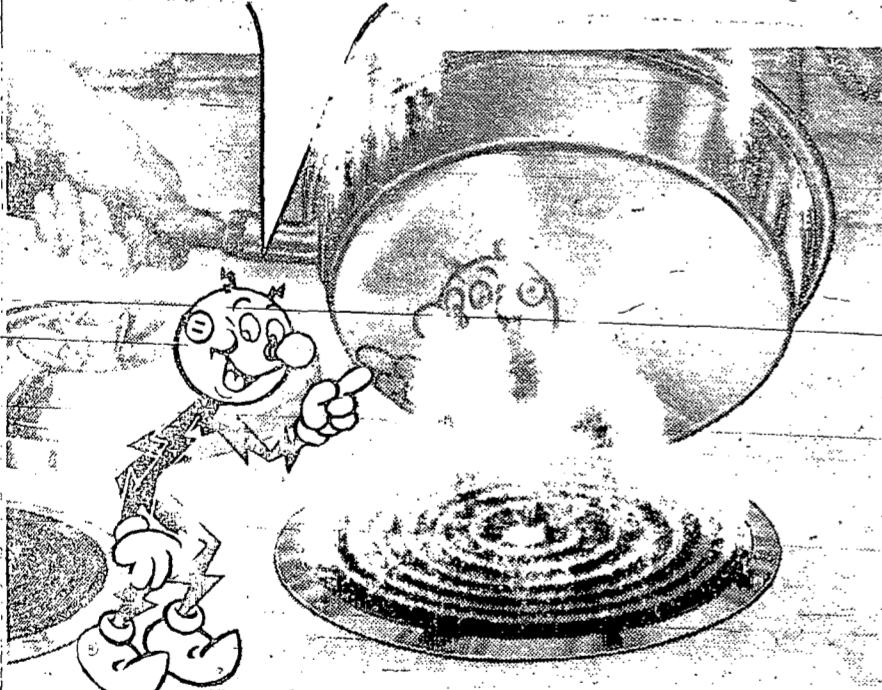

Another Mouse Trap . . .

The Chicago Sun-Times observes: "Emerson's mouse-trap shows up in many different guises. The quote about the world beating its way to the door of the man who makes a better mousetrap is an illustration that competition and the free enterprise system is good not only for business but for the consumers — the buyers of mousetraps."

On Tuesday of the second week of school the total enrollment had reached 655, an increase of 20 over figures for the first day. The population of the school is distributed as follows: South Side school, 60, North Side grades, 295, upper six grades, 360. Things are running full schedule at school, with the band rehearsals starting this week. Physical education and typing schedules are already set up. There remains only the serious business of working through the remaining 36 weeks of school. Some changes in the schedule are noteworthy. A course in French is starting this year, and will alternate with Latin.

HOW LONG SHOULD YOUR TIRES LAST?

Continuing competition among rayon and nylon tire cord makers to increase their share of the market is resulting in better tires for motorists.

Rayon today holds about 80 percent of the tire market due mainly to lower price, though its lead has been challenged in recent years by the stronger nylon cord. The competition has caused rayon cord makers to bring out stronger threads that come close to matching nylon in strength. Nylon tire makers are working hard to reduce prices, but their big advantages are still greater strength and adaptability to recapping.

Your tires can wear out in less than 10,000 miles or last for 40,000, depending on inflation and speed of inflation.

At 30 percent, for instance, a fairly common occurrence, reduces tire life to 80 percent of normal.

By creating high tire temperatures, especially on under-inflated tires, high speed can cut tire life drastically. Taking "normal" speed at 50 MPH, a continuous speed of 80 MPH would increase tread wear four-fold. Reducing continuous speed to 30 MPH will produce a bonus of 41 percent increase over normal.

To protect your tire investment, check your inflation each 500 miles with the tires cold. It is a serious mistake made by many motorists to deflate their tires before or during a long trip when they will be driving at high speeds. A warm tire naturally registers greater inflation poundage due to heat expansion which dissipates as the tire cools.

Thomas of Berkley is spending two weeks visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jamison and daughters Lois and Joyce and Miss Virginia Anderson of Cadillac, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Samuelson, son Wesley and daughter Eva Marie, and Frank Johnson of Muskegon were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herluf Sorenson over Sunday.

Grayling Township has just purchased a power pump for fire protection. It will throw a stream of water fully 150 feet. It is light enough so that two men can carry it, or it may be loaded onto a light truck. It has an intake hose that will draw water from a river or lake or any available water supply. It is operated by a gasoline engine. With it, property in outlying districts may have fire protection. It means that just about every structure in the township will have fire protection. This is good news to property owners residing at Lake Margrethe, the AuSable and Manistee Rivers, the Military reservation and other places. The apparatus cost the township about $1800. They will also be about 150 feet of 1½ inch hose and a supply of nozzle. These will be housed at the Grayling Fire Department building, and we understand its use will be permitted in the city and nearby places should occasion demand.

The city is busy building several stretches of new cement sidewalk on the South Side. Workmen at present are laying walks on both sides of State Street, which has been a long-felt need as this is a much traveled thoroughfare.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howse of Maple Forest and Mr. and Mrs. Remi Schott of Waters are enjoying a pleasure trip to Canada points.

Frank Bennett is building a fine new log cabin on his property at Lake Margrethe. The cabin will have five rooms and will be all modern. The interior will be finished off with shingled logs and have a fireplace. He and Henry Wylie are doing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Llywn Doremire are rejoicing over the arrival of a son, Llywn Anthony, born to them on September 11, at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. Paul Lovely.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Bancroft are happy over the arrival of a son, Donald Allen, born to them Saturday, September 9. The little lad tipped the scales at 7½ lbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hamblin of Maple Forest are the proud parents of a daughter Elizabeth Jane, born to them Thursday, Sept. 7. Among visitors has purchased the Mayne River home on Cedar Street. It is the plan that the building will be removed and a new structure be built for the housing of his dairy business.

PTA's Grow - Children Benefit

It happens every fall.

As children the country over start back to school, the grown-ups most concerned with their welfare get together in activities that protect those children and enhance their learning and their lives.

Usually they do it in the PTA, through one of the more than 47,000 parent-teacher associations that constitute the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

AGAIN THIS fall, the millions of Americans who are PTA members will seek new co-sponsor teen-canteens, art exchanges to help advance "the habits or science fairs, PTA members find satisfaction in helping children to develop their talents to the fullest.

They work toward that goal by continuing their own education, by teaching, too, through study-discussions in areas where they may share in the common market of ideas about children and their needs.

This fall, PTA's are embarking on an ambitious program seeking solutions to "pressing, compelling problems" cited by National Congress leaders as meriting special attention from PTA's.

Depending on their own community needs, they may be working to provide more day nursery services or help for emotionally disturbed children, to prevent school dropouts and juvenile delinquency, to evaluate local opportunities for high school and professional training.

They may adopt suggestions the PTA program offers for promoting physical fitness and preventing accidents to children, for broadening young people's vistas in the field of cultural arts, for encouraging better health habits, for "two-way" communication within the community. And as they do every fall, they welcome other parents, teachers and friends of children to the continuing adventure of the PTA, urging "join it, serve it, grow with it."

2,000 1897 1930 1945 1955 1962

Since its founding in 1897, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers has grown to a membership of more than 12,000,000, in PTA's throughout the United States and in American communities overseas. Its activities range from those of preschool groups to high school PTA's.

Michigan Mirror

The 1962 LEGISLATIVE session was, by tradition, supposed to be short and unproductive because this is an election year.

Productivity conformed to tradition for the most part, but by sheer length and amount of activity, the Legislature made history.

During the 102-day session, nearly 1,250 bills were introduced to set a new record. Of these 251 passed. This was also well up among the record-setting sessions for the number of measures approved.

Gov. John B. Swainson vetoed 10 of the measures presented for his approval. Last year he turned down 17 bills.

Perhaps most notable of the session was the biennial tax squabble which resulted in the enactment of a $77 million package of nuisance taxes.

Other laws enacted of note included the complicated "Sunday closing" regulations affecting the entire retail industry; a rider to create a state conservation camp for teenagers; a new commercial code covering all commercial transactions and paper; and a boating control measure to provide uniform regulations over lakes in a state provide much of the attraction for research. Universities in Michigan can help attract research industries by providing research cooperation with industrial scientists and pointing out resources of cultural benefits.

"Efforts of chambers of commerce, realtors and special promotional agencies are also needed," Muelder said. "These groups near our universities and make them available to interested concerns."

Another requirement for attracting research work to Michigan is a high quality of faculty members at institutions of higher education, he said.

"It has been, or even many times that we have made distinguished faculty available to research programs, especially off-campus agencies."

"Dollars three" in research faculty and research make," he said.

Michigan's grand-daddy of competition, the 240-mile canoe race, was held over the weekend in past years.
